Indian culture is coming to your doorstep, right here in Mexico City.

In response to recurring manifestations of strong interest in various facets of Indian culture among people in Mexico, an Indian Cultural Centre is going to be set up very soon in Mexico City.

The Cultural Centre will be part of the Embassy of India in Mexico City. It is planned to start within a month or so.

The Indian Cultural Centre may offer performances and exhibitions, classes, and training courses in various facets of Indian culture, including Indian dances and music-both classical and folk, Indian languages, cuisine, and last but not least, Yoga.

Aficionados would know that there are various Indian classical dance forms, such as Bharatanatyam, Kathak, Odissi, Kuchipudi, Mohiniattam, Kathakali, Manipuri and Satriya, just as various popular musical instruments like Sitar, Sarod, Santoor, Tabla, Pakhwaj, Mridangam, Veena, Bansuri (flute), Shehnai, and so on.

The endeavour will be to provide facilities for the specific arts etc. that the people of Mexico want.

All those interested in the proposed activities of the Indian Cultural Centre are cordially invited to contact the Embassy, sending an e-mail to: hoc\_eoimex@prodigy.net.mx, or educul\_eoimex@prodigy.net.mx, specifying their areas of interest, in particular what courses they would like to join. Facilities would be arranged accordingly.
